Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya IQAC presents a One Day International Webinar on Multidisciplinary Studies. The current trajectory of academia moves towards an inclusivist approach to learning. Multidisciplinarity spearheads the intersectionality of the several branches of studies to produce "heterosopic" (derived from Foucault) paradigms encouraging a holistic approach to learning. Inspired by that spirit, the IQAC, Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya, presents a one-day international webinar on multidisciplinary. Some of the well-known scholars from various fields of academia will share their wisdom.

Report on two Day National Conference

‘Understanding the Basics of Social Science Research’

Introduction: A two-day national conference on Understanding the Basics of Social Science Research was held on 27th & 28th November, 2020 at Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya. The event aimed to provide participants with a foundational understanding of social science research, including its principles, methodologies, and applications. Tuhin Majumdar, Dept. of English, Khatra Adivasi Mahavidyalaya has been invited to deliver his valuable speech on the said topic.

- Objective:
1. To introduce participants to the fundamental principles of social science research.
 2. To discuss various research methodologies used in social sciences.
 3. To provide practical insights into designing and conducting social science research.
 4. To address ethical considerations and challenges in social science research.

Scope: It covers the basic concept, definition, and role of Social science research in understanding human behaviour challenges.

Inauguration: The programme started at 11 am with a welcome address by the Hon`ble Principal Dr Bijay Kant Dubey. The session included a mix of lectures and interactive discussions.

Deliberation: Dr. Majumdar focused on introducing the basics of social science research. Key points included definition and scope of social science research, the role of social science research in understanding human behaviour and society, overview of different disciplines within social sciences, such as sociology, psychology, anthropology, and political science. She also provided an in-depth discussion on research design and methodology.

Conclusion: The two-day National Conference on ‘Understanding the Basics of Social Science Research’ successfully met the demand of researchers and students. Participants left with a deeper appreciation of the principles and practices of social science research, and practical insights into applying these concepts in their own work.

Report on Two Day National Webinar

‘National and International IP Laws’

Introduction: A two-day national webinar on ‘National and International IP Laws’ was held on 18th & 19th August 2020 at Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya. The event aimed to explore the intricate and fascinating world of Intellectual Property (IP) laws, both at the national and international levels. Intellectual Property rights are crucial in the modern global economy, providing a legal framework for protecting the creations of the mind, which include inventions, literary and artistic works, designs, symbols, names, and images used in commerce. Samiran Bannerjee, WEBELhas been invited to deliver his valuable speech on the said topic.

Objective: 1. To understand the fundamentals of Intellectual Property (IP)

2. To explore the different types of IP

3. To delve into national IP laws and their significance

4. To examine international IP laws and treaties

5. To discuss the challenges and future trends in IP laws

Scope: Its covered an Overview of National IP Law, International IP Treaties and Conventions, the comparative analysis of IP law, and Enforcement of IP Rights.

Inauguration: The pogramme started at 11 am with a welcome address by the Hon`ble Principal Dr Bijay Kant Dubey. The session included a mix of lectures, and interactive discussions.

Deliberation: Saminar Bannerjee first discussed on the basic principles and types of IP protection (patents, trademarks, copyrights, and trade secrets), the legal framework governing IP laws in different countries, the process of obtaining and enforcing IP rights at the national level. Then he highlighted International IP Treaties and Conventions, the comparative analysis of IP law, Enforcement of IP Rights etc.

Conclusion: The two-day National Webinar on ‘National and International IP Laws’

successfully met its objectives by providing a deeper appreciation of the complexities and strategic importance of IP laws

Report on One Day National Webinar 'Qualitative Research Technique'

Introduction: A one-day webinar on Qualitative Research Techniques was held on 5th April 2021 at Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya. The event aimed to provide participants with a comprehensive understanding of qualitative research methodologies, tools, and applications. Dr Narendra Ranjan Malas, Associates Professor, Department of English, Ramananda College has been invited to deliver his valuable speech on the said topic.

- Objective:
1. To introduce participants to the principles and practices of qualitative research.
 2. To explore various qualitative research methods and techniques.
 3. To discuss the ethical considerations and challenges in qualitative research.
 4. To Encourage networking and knowledge sharing among participants.

Scope: Its covers definition, significance, characteristics, various methods and challenges of qualitative research technique.

Inauguration: The pogramme started at 11 am with a welcome address by the Hon`ble Principal Dr Bijay Kant Dubey. The session included a mix of lectures, interactive discussions.

Deliberation: Dr Narendra Ranjan Malas provided an in-depth exploration of various qualitative research methods. At first, he clearly stated the definition, importance and key characteristics of qualitative research to the participants. Ethnography, Phenomenology, Grounded Theory, Case Study Research, Narrative Research, Action Research were nicely explained by the speaker.

The one-day seminar on Qualitative Research Techniques successfully met its objectives by providing participants with a solid foundation in qualitative research methodologies and an understanding of ethical considerations. The organizing team received positive feedback from participants.

Report on One Day International Webinar 'Scientific Methods in Social Science Research'

Introduction: A one-day international webinar was held on 'Scientific Methods in Social Science Research' 4th February 2021 at Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya organised. The event aimed to provide participants with a comprehensive understanding of Scientific Methods in Social Science Research'. Dr Golam Mosthapha, Associate Prof, Islamic University, Bangladesh has been invited to deliver his valuable speech on the said topic.

Objective: 1. To introduce participants to the fundamental principles of scientific methods in social sciences.

2.To discuss various research methodologies applicable to social science research.

3.To highlight the importance of empirical evidence and data analysis in social research.

4.To address common challenges and ethical considerations in social science research.

Scope: Its covers introduction, research design and methodology, data analysis and interpretation and ethical consideration.

Inauguration: The programme started at 11 am with a welcome address by the Hon'ble Principal Dr Bijay Kant Dubey. The session included a mix of lectures, interactive discussions.

Deliberation: Dr Golam Mosthapha provided an in-depth exploration on Scientific Methods in Social Science Research. He discussed:

- Experimental, quasi-experimental, and non-experimental research designs.
- Sampling techniques and their importance in ensuring representative data.
- Data collection methods, including surveys, interviews, and observational studies.
- Techniques for analysing qualitative data, such as thematic analysis and content analysis.
- The significance of triangulation in enhancing the validity of research findings.

The one-day International Webinar on Scientific Methods in Social Science Research successfully met its objectives by providing participants with a solid foundation in research ethics. The organizing team received positive feedback from participants.

Report on the two- day National Conference 'Survey Research'

Introduction: A two day National Conference on 'Survey Research' from 2nd to 3rd August, 2021 at Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya. The event aimed to educate participants on the methodologies, applications, and challenges of survey research. Dr. Ankur Konar, Sir Rashbehari Ghosh Mahavidyalaya has been invited to deliver his valuable speech on the said topic.

- Objective:
1. To introduce the fundamentals of survey research.
 2. To discuss the design and implementation of effective surveys.
 3. To explore data analysis techniques and interpretation of survey results.
 4. To address common challenges and best practices in survey research.

Scope: It covers general introduction of survey research, impact, challenges, ethical considerations and innovation in survey methodologies.

Inauguration: The programme started at 11 am with a welcome address by the Hon'ble Principal Dr Bijay Kant Dubey. The session included a mix of lectures, interactive discussions.

Deliberation: Dr Ankur Konar provided an in-depth exploration of survey research. At first, he clearly stated the definition, importance and key characteristics of research survey to the participants. Key points discussed included:

- Common challenges in survey research, such as sampling bias, non-response, and measurement error.
- The impact of digital technologies and online surveys.
- Ethical considerations in survey research, including informed consent and data privacy.
- Innovations in survey methodologies, such as mobile surveys and mixed-mode surveys

Conclusion: The seminar on Survey Research successfully addressed the critical aspects of designing, conducting, and analysing surveys. Participants gained a deeper understanding of survey research methodologies and best practices.

Report on two Day National Conference

'Different Types of Social Science Research'

Introduction: A two-day national conference on 'Different Types of Social Science Research' was held on 24th and 25th March, 2021 at Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya. The event aimed to provide an in-depth understanding of the various research approaches used in social sciences. Attendees included researchers, academicians and students from diverse fields who were eager to explore different research methodologies and their applications in social sciences. Dr Shreya Bhattacharji, Department of English has been invited to deliver his valuable speech on the said topic.

Objective: 1. To introduce participants to the different types of social science research.

2. To discuss the methodologies and applications of each type of research.

3. To provide insights into selecting appropriate research methods for specific studies.

4. To address the challenges and ethical considerations associated with social science research.

Scope: Its covered Quantitative Research, Qualitative Research ,Mixed Methods Research, Comparative and Historical Research.

Inauguration: The pogramme started at 11 am with a welcome address by the Hon'ble Principal Dr Bijay Kant Dubey. The session included a mix of lectures, interactive discussions.

Deliberation: Dr S Bhattacharji provided evolution in research methods. She discussed Quantitative Research, Qualitative Research ,Mixed Methods Research, Comparative and Historical Research. Definition and characteristics of quantitative research, Common quantitative research designs: experimental, quasi-experimental, and survey research, Data collection methods, such as structured interviews, questionnaires, and existing data sources, Statistical analysis techniques and software tools used in quantitative research are well explained.

Conclusion: The two-day National Conference on 'Different Types of Social Science Research' successfully met its objectives by providing participants with a solid understanding of qualitative research methodologies and an understanding of ethical considerations. Participants left with a deeper understanding of new research methods and practical insights into how to apply these methods in their own work

Report on One Day National Conference

'IPR in Industrial Perspective'

Introduction: A two-day national conference 'IPR in Industrial Perspective' held on 18th February 2022 at Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya. The seminar aimed to provide a comprehensive understanding of IPR, its importance in the industrial sector, and the strategies for effectively managing intellectual property. Prof Punita Jha has been invited to deliver his valuable speech on the said topic.

Objective: 1. To provide an understanding of different types of intellectual property rights relevant to the industrial sector.

2. To discuss the strategic importance of IPR in protecting and commercializing innovations.

3. To highlight the challenges and best practices in managing IPR within industries.

4. To explore the global and local perspectives on IPR enforcement and regulation

Scope: It covered fundamentals of IPR, patents and their role in industrial innovation, trademarks and brand protection.

Inauguration: The programme started at 11 am with a welcome address by the Hon'ble Principal Dr Bijay Kant Dubey. The session included a mix of lectures, and interactive discussions.

Deliberation: Prof Punita focused on the fundamentals of intellectual property rights. Then she highlighted the specifics of patents and their role in industrial innovation. Topics discussed included:

- The patent application process and requirements for patentability.
- Strategic use of patents to protect and leverage technological innovations.
- Case studies of successful industrial patents and their impact on market competition.

She also discussed on trademarks and their importance in brand protection and the concept of trade secrets and the importance of maintaining confidentiality in industrial settings. .

Conclusion: The one-day National Conference on IPR in the industry successfully met its objectives by providing participants with a deeper understanding of the various aspects of IPR and practical insights into how to effectively manage intellectual property within their organizations.

'Writing Research Proposal'

Introduction: One day National Webinar on Writing Research Proposal was held on 10th August, 2021 at Onda Thana Mahavidyalaya. The event aimed to equip participants with the necessary skills and knowledge to write effective research proposals. Dr Shymashree Majhi, Assistant Professor, Durgapur Women's College, has been invited to deliver her valuable speech on the said topic.

Objective: 1.To introduce participants to the structure and components of a research proposal.
2. To provide guidelines on how to formulate research questions and hypotheses.
3.To discuss strategies for writing a compelling literature review and methodology section.
4. To address common challenges and provide tips for writing and submitting research proposals.

Scope: Its covered definition, types, research questions, hypothesis, literature review, research design, methodology, budgeting and timeline, writing and submitting the Proposal .

Inauguration: The pogramme started at 11 am with a welcome address by the Hon`ble Principal Dr Bijay Kant Dubey. The session included a mix of lectures, interactive discussions.

Deliberation: Dr Majhi provided focused on the basics of research proposals. Key points included:

- Definition and purpose of a research proposal.
- Different types of research proposals (e.g., academic, grant proposals).
- The importance of clarity, coherence, and persuasiveness in writing a research proposal.

Conclusion: The one day national webinar on Writing Research Proposal successfully met its objectives by providing participants with a solid foundation in writing research proposal. Participants left with a deeper understanding of the essential components of a research proposal and practical insights into how to craft compelling proposals.

Concept note

I too write from within this inheritance. Postcolonial scholarship is committed, almost by definition, to engaging the universals—such as the abstract figure of the human or that of Reason—that were forged in eighteenth-century Europe and that underlie the human sciences. (05)

Dipesh Chakrabarty, Provincializing Europe (2008)

Contemporary postcolonial theories and practices have taken a significant turn towards the universal- towards the human. The urge to ‘provincializing Europe,’ to move away from Eurocentrism towards a ‘golabectic’ (Thiong’o) humanism is the call of the day. Fanon seems to be more radical: “Let us waste no time in sterile litanies and nauseating mimicry. Leave this Europe where they are never done talking of Man’ (09). The primary focus of our web lecture is the recent development in postcolonial thoughts.

Incidentally, postcolonialism (the non-hyphenated one) is a tendency- an attitude to write back to the colonial past and at the same time to ‘re-member’ (Thiong’o) the pre-colonial past that has been brutally dismantled and buried by the colonial administrations. Said’s phenomenal work Orientalism (1978) addresses the matter of ‘binary social relation’ which helped Europe divide the world into two halves-the Orient and the Occident. In The Empire Writes Back (1989) Bill Ashcroft, Gareth Griffiths and Helen Tiffin look into the future of English language in countries with history of colonialism’ (McLeod 25). The language question was raised by Thiong’o in Decolonizing the Mind (1986) in which he bade farewell to the English language as the first language for his writings. Bhabha challenged the ‘ideological validity of colonialism’ with his theory of ‘mimicry’ and ‘hybridity.’ Spivak introduced the terms ‘Essentialism’ and ‘Strategic Essentialism’ to show how the postcolonial societies operate culturally. Postcolonial feminisms tend to challenge the Western ethics to counter patriarchal exploitation and gendering of women. Theorists, such as Audre Lorde and Chandra Talpade Mohanty argue that in the purview of the European feminist thoughts the Third World women are viewed as a unitary, singular construction, thereby failing to address the complex nuances of the woman question.

The web lectures will be delivered by some of the best thinkers and theorists from all over the world namely Prof. Bill Ashcroft, Prof. Fiona McCann welcome all to register duly and participate in the web lecture series to held from 12 October
